EnerTech Capital Invests in Tangent Energy Solutions, Inc.

Wayne, PA (September 18, 2009) – EnerTech Capital announced today that it has led the Series A investment in Tangent Energy Solutions, Inc.

Tangent Energy Solutions, Inc. (“Tangent”) is led by CEO Dean Musser, the former CEO of EnerTech’s previously held portfolio company Enerwise Global Solutions, and by COO Dave Turner, another experienced utility services and start-up veteran.

“We are delighted to back Dean and Dave and their new company, Tangent Energy Solutions, which is now in the EnerTech III portfolio. Dean’s time with us as an entrepreneur-in-residence, developing the Tangent business model and initial pipeline, has put him well on his way to building another successful cleantech company,” said Tucker Twitmyer, Managing Director of EnerTech Capital.

Tangent is a developer of turnkey, renewable energy generation solutions for commercial and industrial customers. The Company’s deployments will feature combined wind, solar, geothermal and green fuels generation focused on the underserved, behind-the-meter market. Through its innovative systems, Tangent enables its customers to benefit from long-term, low-cost green energy contracts that take advantage of locally available resources and hedge against the potentially increasing cost of carbon and the volatility of fossil fuel prices.

Dean Musser said, "having EnerTech as our lead investor was our first priority in launching Tangent Energy Solutions. To have a financial partner that has deep industry knowledge, vision and a supportive team creates the foundation for a successful business. Simply put, EnerTech is not just the funding source; they are a key element of the Tangent Energy Solutions creation."

Terms of the financing were not disclosed.
